All too often we try to explain in words how to change behaviors in our life. If we examine that power, we find a lack of force to move the automated systems our bodies rely on to sustain it.

Chemical abuse erodes the foundation of our organism.

If you dump ink in the gas tank of your car, how far do you expect it to run? Not only that but how to get the ink, out of your cars system is a trying and tedious task. Most of us would have to buy a new car. With bodies we don't have that option. We must learn how to clean the organism we have polluted so that the automated decision making processes of our body can reset themselves.

Words are like cleaning your floor by telling your floor; be Clean! Not too effective. We need a set of tools with real power. One minute of silence with God is better than a thousand books. Organic food is well worth the price. A complete cleaning of your organism with nutrition is the beginning of a sound recovery. It's hard to see God or even ourselves thru the film of poison that disrupts our automated systems. My program has a 90% success rate. Why? I deal with organism reparation starting with the breath first, great nutrition, exercise, personal responsibility to self first and than for others and silence, so that the power of God may do his work.
